SET FORWARD TO FIRST OF JUNE

Next Step in Case of McNamara Brothers.

PLEAS ON CHARGE OF MURDER

Will Then Be Entered—Name of McManigal Not Mentioned.

QUITE AN ELECTRIC AFFAIR

Los Angeles, Cal., May 5.—The arraignment this afternoon of J. J. McNamara, Indianapolis Union official, and his brother, J. B. McNamara, each on 19 indictments charging murder in connection with the Los Angeles Times disaster, was an electric affair, but of the static rather than the active type.

The men were arraigned on new indictments handed down by the grand jury this morning, which charged the two McNamaras, William Caplan, M. A. Schmidt, John Doe, Jane Done, Richard Roe and John Stiles with the murder of 19 persons, who lost their lives in the explosion and fire on October 1 last. The name of Ortle McManigal was not mentioned.

Attorney Rappaport had the prosecution "guessing" when he asked what was going to be done about the original indictments on which the McNamaras were arrested.

"Let them be arraigned on those indictments," he said, "or else quash them."

The District Attorney replied that those indictments were on file and would remain so, whereupon Rappaport announced he would take action regarding them later.

The actual arraignment, which included the reading of 19 indictments charging murder to each of the brothers, was attended with more nervousness on the part of the District Attorney's staff than was evidenced by the McNamaras.

The elder McNamara was finely composed and regarded everything with an unworried eye. He was exceedingly dapper in a gray suit—just the shade of his hair, by the way—and looked as though he had just come from a high-class outfit. As he stood "at arraignment" he made a massive Leonine picture of a man comparing very advantageously to himself with the officials around him.

J. B. McNamara smiled a good deal, but his hands, which were behind him while he was standing, twitched and nervously rubbed together.

"However, when he took his seat beside his brother, he smiled over at him many times and made brief whispered remarks which were unheard by others.

The court room was jammed with people, all but two of them men, and most of them obviously laboring men, when the brothers were led in by Sheriff W. A. Hammel and attended by a dozen officers. There was no demonstration beyond the business of every one to get the best look possible.

No plea was entered to-day, Attorney Rappaport having asked for and obtained a postponement of this next step in the case until June 1.

Sleuths Play Tag.

Los Angeles, May 6.—With Leo M. Rappaport, who represented John J. McNamara and James B. McNamara when they were arraigned yesterday, charged with nineteen murders in connection with the dynamiting of the Times building, on his way to Indianapolis, and Detective W. J. Burns and Clarence Darrow not expected in Los Angeles for a week or more, an interesting game of tag has started here.

Burns' operatives are watching every move made by the defense and shadowing some of the principals. Pinkerton men, in turn, are shadowing Burns' operators and the principals on the side of the prosecution, and this situation promises to continue until the McNamaras are taken into court to plead to the indictments on June 1.

It has developed that six persons were indicted by the grand jury Friday, among them one woman, in addition to the indictment of the McNamaras, Ortle McManigal, M. A. Schmidt and William Kaplin. The identity of the other men and the woman is a secret.

J. D. Fredericks, District Attorney, said to-day that when McManigal is arraigned he undoubtedly will plead guilty. He insists McManigal will not be given immunity. The punishment for exploding dynamite in a building containing human life is from ten years to life imprisonment.

FIERCE FIGHT OF FISH PARTNERS OVER FISH NET

In an alleged dispute over a fish net, on Tuesday evening of last week, near the mouth of Grassy creek, a few miles below Hartford, Josh Crowe was badly cut in the abdomen by Ed Johnson. The fight occurred in Johnson's horse lot. Crowe and Johnson were partners in the fishing business and frequently came to Hartford with a load of the finny tribe.

It is said that Crowe approached Johnson for a talk, carrying a shotgun, which he laid on the ground for a few moments. A dispute arose and the scrap ensued. In the melee, Johnson got hold of Crowe's gun and threw the shells out and Crowe struck Johnson with an iron buggy-arm. Johnson then brought his knife into play and slashed Crowe across the abdomen, making about a four-inch gash which entered the hollow. In relating these incidents, Johnson says he acted in self-defense, but Crowe disputes this.

After the cutting, Johnson offered to take care of Crowe, but the latter refused his proffered help. However, Johnson immediately telephoned to Centertown for medical or surgical aid and Mrs. Smith and Crowe went to the injured man. At first it was thought the wound would be fatal, but at present Crowe is getting along very well, and his recovery seems assured.

Johnson appeared before Esq. J. C. Jackson, of Centertown, Wednesday and gave bond to the amount of $200. The examining trial will probably be held to-morrow in Esquire Jackson's court.

THE BARACA-PHILATHEA NATIONAL CONVENTION

You should plan to go to the Baraca-Philathea National Convention at Kansas City, June 10-15. Be one of the two thousand delegates. This is to be the greatest convention ever held by the Baraca and Philatheas. Thousands are now planning to go to Kansas City, June 10th. If you can't go, help send a representative. See that your teacher and president go. Pay their expenses if necessary.

In 1909 there were 33 delegates from Kentucky at the Ashville Convention. Last year there were 30 at Jamestown. This year will surely have at least fifty at Kansas City.

Every church in the Commonwealth that has the honor of a Baraca or Philathea class should see that some of their young men and young women go to this Convention. You can't calculate the good that may grow out of their attendance.

With best wishes and hoping to meet you at the Convention, I am Yours to serve,

LUTHER C. REYNOLDS,
General Secretary, Maysville, Ky.

AGED WOMAN DIES OF A PARALYTIC STROKE

Mrs. Anna Elizabeth Mattingly, of Whitesville, the wife of Mr. A. D. Mattingly, died Thursday morning at 3 o'clock as the result of a paralytic stroke. Mrs. Mattingly was 76 years of age, a highly respected woman, and a member of the Whitesville Baptist church.

She suffered a paralytic stroke on Thursday afternoon, April 20, remaining in a serious condition until her death. It was thought, however, she would recover until Wednesday morning, when she took a turn for the worse.

She is survived by her husband, two children, Mrs. Oscar Haynes and Mrs. Tom Ramsey, of Whitesville, and one brother, Mr. Al Bartlett, residing in Illinois.

METHODIST CHURCH.

Prayer meeting Wednesday at 8 p. m. Subject: "The Love of God as Taught in the Old Testament." Preaching at Mt. Hermon next Sunday at 11 a. m. and at night. Sunday School at 9:30 a. m.

SELF DEFENSE WOMAN'S PLEA

Mrs. Lynch Surrendered at Owensboro.

WAS FEUD OF LONG STANDING

Armed Woman With Three Men Went to Son-in-Law's Home.

BROTHER DENOUNCES AFFAIR

Concerning the shooting of Amby Buck by his mother-in-law, Mrs. George Lynch, the first account of which appears on the third page of the Herald to-day, the Owensboro Messenger says:

Mrs. George Lynch, who shot and it is thought fatally wounded, her son-in-law, Amby Buck, at the latter's home near Indian Hill, came to Owensboro Friday morning and after a conference with her attorney, W. S. Morrison, surrendered to Constable Cole, and is now being guarded at the home of the constable on Poindexter avenue, in the west end.

Mrs. Lynch, after shooting Buck Thursday night, spent the night at her home, and accompanied by her husband and a brother-in-law, came to Owensboro Friday morning, reaching here about 9 o'clock. She went to the office of Mr. Morrison and it was only a short time till a warrant charging her with shooting and wounding with intent to kill was drawn up and placed in the hands of the constable, to whom the woman stated that she desired to surrender.

Mrs. Lynch claims that the shot she fired into Buck was into self defense and according to her story there were several witnesses to the affair. Buck, according to the story told by the woman, had lived on their farm for about four years and only four months ago married one of her daughters. Mrs. Lynch says that he has been very abusive and that on Thursday afternoon he threatened to throw his wife into a well near his home and that he did take her very near it and acted as though he was going to push her into it.

The mother of the young woman called to him, causing him to draw back. He then said that he was through with his wife and told Mrs. Lynch to take her home with her. Mrs. Lynch said that she would come back for her daughter that night and would take her home. Buck then said that if she did come, he would shoot her.

About 8 o'clock Thursday evening, Mrs. Lynch, accompanied by her husband and two young men, went to Buck's home and knocked at the door. Buck had retired, but answered the door. When he saw the woman and the shotgun that she was carrying, he stooped over, saying that he would get his pistol and kill her. Mrs. Lynch said that realizing her danger, she fired. This is the woman's story. The young man who was shot down has not made a statement.

Buck, although the shot tore a great hole in his left side, grasped his pistol and thrust it within a few inches of George Lynch's face and attempted to shoot, when one of the young men grabbed his hand and wrenched the revolver from his grasp.

Mrs. Lynch stated that she regretted the occurrence, but that she had fired as she believed in self defense, but that it had not been her intention, however, to inflict a mortal wound. She said that Buck for several days had been very jealous of his wife and had caused a great deal of trouble for them all.

Buck's brother-in-law, who also married a daughter of Mrs. Lynch, said that the shooting was cold-blooded and without reason. He says that Mrs. Lynch had been causing trouble for Buck all the time and that she had never liked him. He says that she accused Buck of paying more attention to another one of her daughters than he did to the one to whom he was married.

Amby Buck, although alive at a late hour last night, will die, according to the statement of his physicians who say that there is not the slightest possibility of his recovery.

In the event of the death of Buck before Tuesday, Mrs. Lynch will be given a preliminary trial on the charge of murder and the warrant under which she is now being held will be destroyed. Until Tuesday morning, at which time her trial will be held, she will be in the custody of Constable Cole, into whose custody she was given by Judge Owen.

Note—A telephone message from Indian Hill announced the death of Amby Buck at 1:45 o'clock yesterday (Tuesday) morning. In a dying statement, Buck said he was shot down in cold blood without the slightest provocation.

MCLEAN CIRCUIT COURT IN SESSION AT CALHOON

The regular spring session of the McLean County Circuit Court began at Calhoon Monday, with Judge Birkhead, presiding. The term is for a period of two weeks, but unless complications arise, wherein it will be necessary to keep the grand jury in session to carry out certain work which Judge Birkhead will expect to be done, the court will likely finish up in one week.

The most important work to be considered by the grand jury will be the investigation of the mob at Livermore, which lynched William Potter, colored, for the shooting of Clarence Mitchell.

Judge Birkhead will insist on the grand jury returning indictments against all those implicated in one of the most outrageous crimes ever committed in McLean county.

Commonwealth's Attorney Ringo says that two, if not more than that number, are almost certain to be indicted, as enough evidence will be secured to warrant the grand jury in returning the indictments.

ANNUAL ENCAMPMENT G. A. R. AT OWENSBORO

The annual encampment of the Grand Army of Kentucky will be held at Owensboro on May 12 and 13.

The chief attraction for the people will be the public reception or camp fire at the Grand theatre on Friday evening, May 12, which will be an interesting affair, and will be free to all, and everybody is invited. Delegates will attend from all over the State and some distinguished visitors from other States.

A committee of leading citizens have co-operated with a committee from the local G. A. R. post in preparation for the occasion and have rendered valuable assistance in their efforts to make a success of the entertainment.

JURY FAILS TO AGREE IN BANK CASHIER CASE

Henderson, Ky., May 6.—C. W. Sherrill, the young cashier of the defunct Robards bank, failed to learn his final fate this afternoon, when the jury, after 12 hours of deliberation, was finally discharged by Judge Henson in the Circuit Court. The jury stood seven for conviction, and five for acquittal.

Sherrill was tried on an indictment for false swearing to the bank statement of the Farmers' and Merchants' bank of Robards.

Sherrill and his young wife were disappointed when it was announced that the jury had failed to agree on a verdict, as they confidently expected an acquittal.

ANOTHER ONE—IS NOW FATHER OF TWENTY-FIVE

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., May 6.—Mrs. Nathan Valone, of Pittston, to-day presented to her husband his twenty-fifth child, a fine girl weighing fifteen pounds. Of the twenty-five, twenty-two are alive and well and several of them are married. Valone is going to let Col. Roosevelt, of whom he is a great admirer, know about his great good fortune.

"I think he will be proud of me," commented Valone.

Valone was naturalized in 1884 and the same year he married. He was twice wedded. His first wife presented him with sixteen children, twelve boys and four girls, and all but two of these grew up. Ten years ago he married again, and his second wife has given him nine children.

Valone has prospered, notwithstanding his large family, for he now owns a grocery store, shoe store, fruit store, his own home and several other houses.

FURIOUS BLAZE AT WHITESVILLE

Monday Destroyed Much Property.

THE LOSS IS $15,000 OR MORE

With Little Insurance—Fire Started in Wareroom of Brooks Store.

ORIGIN OF FLAMES UNKNOWN

But for the fact that the wind shifted, after the fire had partially destroyed Whitesville, shortly after 9 o'clock Monday morning, that little town would have been wiped off the map.

It is hard to tell the exact loss, but it is thought it will reach $15,000, with only very small insurance covering the entire loss.

The origin of the fire is unknown. When it was first discovered by E. R. Knox and Joe Stinnett, the flames were bursting through the roof in the wareroom of the A. P. Brooks store, and immediately an alarm was given and the entire town turned out. The fire started on the south side of Main street, and the wind, which was blowing at a good gale, soon wiped out every house on that side of the street. The fire continued until 12 o'clock, when the flames were extinguished by tearing down a stable which belonged to Berry Evans, adjoining the large tobacco factory now occupied by the American Tobacco company.

After the fire got under headway and destroyed the general store of A. P. Brooks, it made a clean sweep on that side of the street, burning the building of W. D. Miller, which was occupied by Lon Martin as a barbershop. Martin saved all his fixtures and tools. Wells, the owner of the building, lost $500, with no insurance.

The drug store of R. E. Knox was also destroyed, the loss to the building and medicines being $2,000. The fixtures and furniture were saved.

The grocery owned by W. T. Greer was also destroyed, entailing a loss of $2,000. The building was owned by A. D. Mattingly, and neither Mattingly nor Greer carried any insurance.

J. H. Wheatley lost three houses, one being filled with fertilizer, and the other used as a storage room. The other building was used as the city lockup, but there were no prisoners in it at the time of the fire. Mr. Wheatley's loss will probably be $500.

The millinery department of Rhodes and Murphy, which was conducted by two ladies of that place, was also destroyed. Most of the millinery stock was saved.

The grocery and dry goods store owned by Wilfred Long was also a total loss to the extent of $2,000. The building was owned by L. R. Rhodes, and was uninsured.

The undertaking establishment conducted by F. L. Compton was also burned, entailing a loss to W. L. Miller, the owner, of $500. Mr. Compton saved all his burial robes.

The warehouse owned by Charles Cheatham was destroyed, the loss being $500. D. F. Brooks and sons, who had fertilizer, lumber and wire stored in same, lost the entire outfit, the loss being $500.

The new house erected by Berry Evans, and used as a barbershop and meat market, was also burned. Mr. Evans' damage will be $500, with no insurance.

The large plate glass in the general store of J. H. Wheatley, and also the plate glass in the front of the Farmers' and Mechanics' bank, were broken out, at a loss of $200. Both these buildings are on the opposite side of the street from where the fire started.

The stable and office of Dr. Carter in the rear of Brooks' store, was also destroyed. The loss will be $500, fully covered by insurance.

During the fire Dr. Edge fell from a stable, and for a time was rendered unconscious. Dr. Carter had his arm badly injured by a plank which fell from a burning building.

John Taylor, a boy about 14 years old, was severely injured on the head. He was in one of the burning buildings when a heavy scantling fell on his head, cutting a deep gash. It is not thought the boy is fatally hurt.

The town is without fire protection and had only a bucket brigade. This is the second big fire that has visited Whitesville in the past four years. The first fire started in the big store of P. H. Haffey. Several buildings were destroyed, and the loss was about $15,000.

DEATH OF AGED CITIZEN AT HOME OF BROTHER

Henry W. Howard, 83 years of age, died at 3:30 Saturday at the home of his brother, Al Howard, near Utica, of infirmities incident to old age.

Mr. Howard was a well known farmer of Henderson county, but was born and raised near Livia, at that time being a part of Ohio county. He was well known in Davless county, where he had a great many friends. Mr. Howard went to Utica only a few days ago to visit his brother and other relatives, when he was taken ill.

Mr. Howard is survived by his wife, Mrs. Josie Howard, and five children—Messrs. George Howard, of Memphis, and S. J. Howard, of Henderson; Mrs. Ollie Tousey, of Henderson, and Mrs. Henry Edmunds, of Rock Hill, and Dr. John Howard, of western Kentucky. He is also survived by three sisters—Mrs. Joel Yager, of Owensboro; Mrs. Crick Rowan, of Livermore, and Mrs. Rose Tanner, of Missouri.

BLUE AND GRAY TO HOLD A GREAT LOVE FEAST

Washington, May 5.—Plans for a big fiftieth anniversary love feast, to be attended by the Union and Confederate soldiers, who fought each other in the battle of Bull Run, have been made in Washington. The peace meeting is to be held July 1, on the same field where the men met fifty years ago to take the lives of each other, and it is expected that several hundred of the soldiers on each side will attend.

Considerable impetus was given the project at a raising of the Stars and Stripes on the battlefield near Manassas, Va., to-day, and Washington veterans who were in attendance returned to this city to-day enthusiastic over the plans.

WORSHIPPED GOLD WHEN HE WAS DENIED LOVE

New York, May 4.—Unable to marry the girl he loved, because he lacked wealth, Duncan J. MacFae, an architect, determined fifty years ago to devote his life to making money. At the age of 30 he gave up all social pleasures and became a miser.

By shrewd dealing and denying himself every comfort, he accumulated a fortune. But the loneliness that came in later years could not be dispelled even by the thought of the gold he worshipped. He was found dead last night in his cheap little room on Dominick street. A rubber tube leading from a gas jet to his mouth told the story of suicide.

WOODMEN WILL HAVE BIG SUPPER IN HARTFORD

The local lodge of the Woodmen of the World is preparing to have an elaborate supper for their members, wives, sweethearts and friends in this city on Saturday night, May 13. The occasion promises to be an elegant affair and a large attendance is expected. The following program has been arranged for the evening:

Welcome Address—Council Commander, T. P. Williams.

Woodcraft as a Home Protector—Mayor James H. Williams.

Fraternal Insurance—P. D. Twed-dell.

Our Lady Woodmen—T. R. Barnard.

What the Woodmen's Auxiliary Has Done—To be supplied.

What the Hartford Members Should Do—Birks Tichenor.

Why I am a Woodman—W. H. Parks.

Social entertainment.

Master of Ceremonies—W. R. Hedrick.

Prof. F. L. Charles, assistant professor of agricultural education in the University of Illinois, committed suicide Saturday by choking himself with a book strap.

Charles J. McCarty, of Evansville, committed suicide rather than submit to arrest.

KILLED TENANT --BURIED BODY

Is the Charge Against Indiana Farmer.

HIS SON HUNTED UP EVIDENCE
And Conducted the Proceedings to Establish His Father's Guilt.

DAUGHTER STANDS BY FATHER

Fowler, Ind., May 4.—John Poole, a wealthy farmer, who is guarded in jail here by fifty deputy sheriffs, to-day confessed that he killed Joseph Kemper, a farm hand, and then cut his body to pieces and buried it with the refuse from a killing of hogs. He said the killing was accidental.

The body was found buried on his farm near here by his son, who accused him of the murder and intimated that the elder Poole was guilty of murders which rival those committed on the famous "murder farm" of Belle Gunness, at Laporte, Ind.

With his confession, Poole said he had killed Kemper December 12, while out rabbit hunting when the family was away from home. He said they were climbing over a fence when the gun was accidentally discharged. Fearing public opinion was against him because he shot a man several years ago, he said, he cut up the body and buried it.

Two other farm hands who recently worked for Poole vanished in a similar manner, and searchers are digging up the farm, searching for the bodies. These men were Chas. Clark and Charles Mack.

The exposure of the Kemper murder was made by Poole and his eighteen-year-old son, Emory, who says his mother and sisters have had cognizance of Poole's connection with the disappearance of Kemper, but have been restrained by threats of death from making their knowledge public. The daughter, Grace, is a student in Chicago.

Emory first made known his suspicions several weeks ago. He visited Indianapolis and interested a detective agency in the mystery, with the result that the elder Poole was arrested March 16, when a midnight search was conducted for the body. Poole was released when nothing was found.

Young Poole himself conducted the search from then on, with the result that the body was found in a cornfield yesterday. It had been dismembered and buried at a depth of several feet, and had been covered with bones and other waste products of several hogs killed the day following Kemper's disappearance. Several pieces of bone bore evidence of a charge of buckshot.

A carpet saturated in spots with blood was found, but Poole explained that he had been dressing rabbits in the house.

Poole once was tried on a charge of shooting a neighbor, but escaped on a plea of insanity. He was sent to an asylum, but was paroled a few years ago.

While the search for other bodies is going on, neighbors have recalled several other mysterious disappearances from the Poole farm.

Believes in Her Father.
Chicago, Ill., May 4.—Accused of wholesale murders by his son, in Indiana, John W. Poole has a staunch defender in his daughter, now in Chicago, a student at the Englewood Business College.

Miss Grace Poole came from Fowler, Ind., last Monday night to enter the school. She is staying temporarily at the residence of Franklin B. Bellis, president of the school.

"I do not believe my father killed Kemper or anyone else," the girl exclaimed, when told of the charge against her father. "I cannot understand how brother Emory could say that I aroused his suspicions regarding my father. I know nothing at all about it, and I feel positive that my father did not kill Kemper. Father was insane, but he recovered, and for a long time has shown no signs of insanity. He was arrested in March, but was released afterward because there was no proof against him. My mother has been ill for a long time, and I am afraid that this shock will be hard on her. Emory stirred up all the trouble. He hates father."

For soreness of the muscles, whether induced by violent exercise or injury, Chamberlain's Liniment is excellent. This liniment is also highly esteemed for the relief it affords in cases of rheumatism. Sold by all druggists.

FRIDAY, APRIL 28, 1911.

ADDAMS! ADDAMS! SO SAY WE ALL, GENTLEMEN!

Is there a Democrat but believes that if Senator McCreary gets the Gubernatorial nomination, the chances of his party's success will be in doubt? Is it not the part of wisdom, therefore, for him to turn to some one who can bring the people to victory? William Addams, of Harrison county, is such a candidate. Place your banner in his hands and he will give you the hope and enthusiasm that must land us all winners. A few weeks since we were left floundering, feeling that there were none to make an active fight to oppose Senator McCreary for the nomination, but since the manly stand and clean-cut statements of Mr. Addams, our doubts are at last thrown aside and hope has taken the place of our doubts in our party success.

There be times when our darkest periods are just before the dawn, and Democracy in Kentucky appears to have passed through them. From now on every one should feel, with such a man as Addams to lead, that success must surely come.

Mr. Addams has a number of relatives and friends in "Old Shelby," and, though his county is in Mr. McCreary's district, yet it can be turned to the Harrison county man who can land the party triumphant in November.

Let us stop our party bickerings. Addams is a man we can unite upon, and let us all, therefore, get together and be for Addams.

Let the party slogan be "Party success," and Mr. Addams will be selected. He is the man of the hour, the man you want, the man you need, the man you must have.

Addams! Addams! Sosay we all! Addams!

SALVATION ARMY SONG PREVENTED A MURDER

And Suicide—The Man Gave Up a Loaded Gun and Stiletto.

The Cincinnati Enquirer says: A man with murder in his heart who was touched by the Salvationists singing "Cleansing For Me" at an open air meeting Sunday afternoon at Fifth and Race street, so that he surrendered a Colt's revolver and a pearl-handled stiletto, is wanted by the soldiers.

At the conclusion of the song the man stepped forth from the audience and gave the Staff Captain a parcel wrapped in a much-used newspaper. In subdued tone he told the Salvationist to take care of the parcel, stating that it contained a gun and knife. The man refused to give his name, but said he came here to commit murder and then to kill himself. He refused to make known the name of the person he intended slaying. The speaker simply stated that he had been touched by the character and words of the song, which caused him to forget his murderous intentions.

The man refused to be converted, saying that if he told all he knew, others would surely track him down and end his earthly career. He said that he had been until recently an engineer on the Cincinnati Southern Railroad, and came to Cincinnati from the southern part of Kentucky. The unknown promised to meet Captain Lynch yesterday morning and talk about his plans for the future, but the railroad failed to keep the appointment. Captain Lynch last night said he believed the man had been implicated in a recent feud in the mountains of Kentucky. He has the revolver with six loaded chambers, and the knife, at the Citadel Building, on East Eighth street.

J. M. Howell, a popular druggist of Greensburg, Ky., says: "We use Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in our household and know it is excellent." For sale by all dealers.

ONLY AUTOMOBILES WERE AT THIS FUNERAL

New York, May 5.—Only automobiles—twelve limousine cars—followed the automobile hearse in which the body of Mrs. H. Carroll Brown, daughter of the late Marcus Daly, was borne to the grave today. As the long procession filed its dusty way from Mrs. Marcus Daly's house in Fifth avenue to Greenwood cemetery, Brooklyn, it drew comment on every side.

Now is the time to get rid of your rheumatism. You will find Chamberlain's Liniment wonderfully effective. One application will convince you of its merits. Try it. For sale by all dealers.

CATHOLICS FORM NEW CHURCH ORGANIZATION

To Foster Colonization in United States—"Back to the Farm."

St. Louis, Mo., May 4.—The Catholic Colonization Society of the United States is the name of an organization formed by 26 priests, who are here holding a two days' conference at the Southern Hotel.

Archbishop Glennon, who is presiding at the conference, said that the organization was formed in order to foster, concentrate and direct Catholic colonization in the United States and to act as a central bureau for the local Catholic bureaus. The society also will co-operate with the national racial societies where the same are in accord with local diocesan authorities. Rev. E. J. Wattman, of Chicago, was appointed Secretary.

"There are annually over 1,000,000 immigrants who come into the United States," said Archbishop Glennon. "Of this number 700,000 are Catholics, two-thirds of whom are farmers. It is better to lead these people to farms than let them settle in the cities, which are already congested. By the natural environments of the farm, they will be able to build up a more uniform civilization."

"The organization will endeavor to induce those who are already in the cities to settle on farms." Archbishop Glennon, in outlining the objects of the organization to the delegates, said that one of the greatest menaces which threatened the immigrant women was the "white slave" traffic. The organization expects to act as a safeguard against this evil. Officers will be elected to-morrow.

Is there anything in all this world that is of more importance to you than good digestion? Food must be eaten to sustain life and must be digested and converted into blood. When the digestion fails, the whole body suffers. Chamberlain's Tablets are a rational and reliable cure for indigestion. They increase the flow of bile, purify the blood, strengthen the stomach, and tone up the whole digestive apparatus to a natural and healthy action. For sale by all dealers.

SHERRILL IS PUT ON TRIAL

In Bank Matter, Charged With Perjury.

YOUTHFUL BANKER FIGHTING
To Escape Penitentiary—His Inexperience May Be Pleaded.

CONTINUANCE OF CASE ASKED

Henderson, Ky., May 4.—With his young wife and baby sitting beside him, C. W. Sherrill, cashier of the defunct bank of Robards, this county, yesterday listened to the evidence in the Circuit Court adduced by the Commonwealth in an effort to send him to the penitentiary for perjury. Sherrill is accused of making a false report to the Secretary of State.

Sherrill is just 21 years old, though he has the appearance of a person of 25. His wife is younger than himself. Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Sherrill, of Slaughtersville, Ky., parents of the defendant, and M. A. E. L. Brooks, of Evansville, mother of young Mrs. Sherrill, were there also.

J. M. Ramey, representing the Secretary of State's office, was the first witness introduced by Commonwealth's Attorney S. V. Dixon and County Attorney W. P. McClain. He testified that he had investigated the books of the bank and found that the defendant had sworn to a false affidavit.

B. G. Witt, cashier of the Ohio Valley Banking and Trust company, assignee of the Farmers' and Merchants' Bank of Robards, gave in detail a report of the condition of the bank when his institution took charge of the books. Witt said that at the time the statement was made by Sherrill there were overdrafts aggregating more than $14,000 and that Sherrill himself had overdrawn $2,000.

The defendant's lawyers filed an affidavit yesterday morning in which Sherrill asked for a continuance of the case on the grounds that his father-in-law, E. L. Brooks, and Dr. J. U. Ridley, were absent and could not testify for him. It was alleged that Ridley would testify that Sherrill was only 19 years old when he took charge of the bank and that he was inexperienced in that line of work.

It is likely one of Sherrill's pleas will be that he was too young and inexperienced to manage the affairs of the bank and that the statement to the Secretary of State was made erroneously because he believed it was probably true.

PERTINENT VIEWS OF CARNegie ON THE TARIFF

The tariff will not down; on the contrary, it is to-day the foremost domestic question and promises to remain so through the next Presidential campaign.

There are two kinds of tariff—one for revenue, one for protection. In neither of these should food or the necessities of life be taxed. This is fundamental, whether the tariff be for revenue or protection. The Government must have revenue, and because tariff duties can easily be collected upon articles of luxury imported, it is wise, very wise, to avail ourselves of this source of revenue, because the few rich who have the ability to pay should be made to pay heavily upon luxuries which the masses do not consume.

Duties should not be levied upon art treasures imported, because these tend to gravitate to public galleries and thus become the priceless possessions of the people. Although held for a time by their owners, a generation comes when an owner, bereft of family perhaps or for other reasons, bequeaths them to the city. They are not "consumed" as luxuries are.

Encourage new industries where there is a prospect of finally getting thrifty in due time a surer supply cheaper at home than the foreigner can give. If, after proper patient testing it is clear that our domestic supply of any article cannot be obtained except at a higher price than the foreign, which has always to pay transportation to our shores, then we should not pursue the experiment unless the article is essential for our defense.—[From the May Century.

JAMES EDWARDS LANDS ON HALEY

Louisville Candidate Tells
Some Things.

NOT A MACHINE, BUT DICTATOR

He Has Found, He Says—Wants to Know Whereforeness of the Matter.

HEADQUARTERS ARE IN OHIO

In his speech at Lebanon recently, James P. Edwards, of Louisville, candidate for Lieutenant Governor, said:

"I am a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Lieutenant Governor. I was permitted to run for a period of about a year without opposition. I have lately gotten considerable opposition—two gentlemen in my home town in the last two weeks have entered the race.

"I want to tell you that I have a reason for running this race, and I have a reason for running it out. My motto is 'Down with the machine and break the slate.' I have no machine behind me, Mr. Chairman, to aid me in my endeavor for this nomination. I have no machine behind me whose bidding I would have to do if elected to the office of Lieutenant Governor. I am making this statement because I do not believe that the time is ripe in Kentucky when a man can get off in a room in a foreign hotel and dictate the nominees of a great party. (Applause). I do not believe that the suffrage of the Democrats of the State of Kentucky is a purchasable commodity.

"It has been my privilege to visit forty counties—forty-seven, to be exact—in this canvass. I have been from Big Sandy to Mills Point. I have touched the Tennessee line eight times. I have been to the point where the three States corner at Pinnacle mountain. I have been where the Tennessee river empties into the Ohio, and from there west to where the Ohio empties into the Mississippi; and in all that trip I have been searching for what I have been told is a Democratic machine that rules this State, and I say to you that the last vestige of it has left Kentucky. To find it, I had to cross the river into the State of Ohio and enter the portals of the Sinton hotel, from which it operates. (Applause.)

"I tell you that machine as it has existed is a political and moral bankrupt in Kentucky. There was a time maybe when certain men had patronage to dish out; there was a time when they could discharge men from jobs if they did not do their bidding, and some of them yielded to the lash, and I want to say to you that throughout the State of Kentucky I have seen no disposition anywhere to bow the knee to Mammon or to Baal.

"By what qualification, I ask you, is it that this man Haley, a political parasite without a parallel on the American stage to-day—by what qualification does he attempt to dictate to you and to me as to whether or not we shall be candidates for office inside of the Democratic party? Is it because he has been honored in the past and drawn salaries from Democratic treasuries? Or is it because he is now the Man Friday and henchman of a millionaire? Whatever his qualifications may be, I want to say to you, and I want to say to the machine whose mouthpiece he is, that from now until the first day of July, I propose to talk against it in every county where I can get an audience in the entire State of Kentucky. (Applause.)

"I do not believe that a few men can run this State, nor shall I ever believe it until the matter has been demonstrated upon the first day of July. I concede to these gentlemen the right to support whomsoever they will; I concede to them the right to bring whatever strength, whether it be of money or of men, behind their candidates for office, but I do not concede their right to assume a dictatorship and to tell you and me and the untrammelled voters of Kentucky what they shall do or what they shall not do."

KEEP THE MONEY AT HOME— HOME INTERESTS NEED IT

It is generally accepted as a good municipal policy to hire your own home laborers to do public work. In few cities could you get a vote to let public works to outside contractors if outside labor was to be employed.

And yet some of our people will slip out of town quietly, thinking no one will know it, and buy goods that can be had as well at home. And then they complain because local merchants do not keep the best assortments of goods. Do they suppose our home stores are going to keep lines just for the pleasure of looking at them?

If the thousands on thousands of dollars sent to cities from here for things our home people supply, could by a sudden growth of home loyalty be spent at home, what would be the result?

Our stores would keep larger assortments, they would be doing more business, they could hire more help, this help would swell home trade instead of going off to other places to get jobs. Real estate values would rise, and every man that owns property would get a dividend in the gain in value of his holdings.

BOTTOM DROPS OUT OF PEACH ORCHARD

Farm in Armstrong Township
Slowly Sinking—Believed Cave Beneath.

Evansville, Ind., May 6.—A great deal of excitement has been occasioned in the vicinity of the home of John Goebel, in Armstrong township, 11 miles north of this city, by the sinking of a patch of ground on Goebel's farm, and all kinds of speculation is being indulged in as to the causes of this freak of nature.

Near the home of Mr. Goebel is his peach orchard, about one hundred yards long, and 50 yards wide, and containing almost an acre of land. Several days ago the orchard began to slowly sink, and has now gone down about six feet, and the land is still sinking. There is a pond in the middle of the orchard and as the land began to sink, the bed of the pond cracked, and all the water has disappeared from the pond and seeped through the bottom into the earth. The pond is now filled with large cracks.

The sunken ground is in the shape of a hen's egg, and is pointed at one end. The trees on the ground are standing intact, and several large crevices have appeared. Mr. Goebel says many people he has talked to have ventured the opinion that there is a large cave underneath the farm. He has stuck long poles into the cracks in the sunken ground to the extent of 10 feet or more, and failed to reach bottom. Mr. Goebel says there have been no coal mines in his neighborhood to his knowledge, and states it is not probable that there are any abandoned shafts on his farm. He rather holds to the conclusion that there is a cave underneath his orchard, and that the ground will continue to go down until the bottom of the cave has been reached. Mr. Goebel's house sits about 10 steps from the sunken orchard, and members of his family, when they retire at night, have no assurance that the earth will not swallow them up before morning.

FATALLY SHOT BY MOTHER-IN-LAW

Young Man Dying at Home
At Indian Hill.

RESULT OF FAMILY QUARREL

Woman Walks Mile and Calls
Young Man to Front Door and Fires.

BEEN MARRIED FOUR MONTHS

Hawesville, Ky., May 4.—Amby Buck, twenty-three years of age, a bridegroom of four months, is lying to-night on a bed at his home at Indian Hill, with the entire load of shot from a shotgun in his lower left lung. The person who fired the shot into the young man's body is the mother of his wife, who is watching by his bedside—watching his life blood trickle away—for at midnight it was announced by the attending physician that the wounded man was at the point of death and that no operation could save him.

Amby Buck was shot down in his home at 7 o'clock to-night, without warning, by Mrs. George Lynch, aged fifty years, who, accompanied by her husband, walked a mile to the home of their son-in-law.

The young couple had retired. A knock at the door brought Buck to the front of the house. When he opened the door he was confronted with a shotgun held by Mrs. Lynch. Before he had time to turn in his tracks, he was shot down. The entire load of shot lodged in his left side, tearing away a portion of the left lung.

The young wife, who was in a bed nearby, sprang to the floor at the report of the gun. She rushed to the side of her husband. The mother and father stood in the door for a few seconds and then walked away.

The couple was met in the road by a neighbor and the woman announced that she had shot her son-in-law, and was on her way to Owensboro to surrender. Indian Hill is ten miles from Hawesville, and is between Hawesville and Owensboro.

No one seems to know the cause of the tragedy. All that can be learned is that there was a family quarrel a few days ago. It is said that the young man was extremely jealous, and it is thought that this may have brought about the trouble.

All of the parties are well known and much excitement has been caused in the neighborhood in which the affair occurred.

NEW POET IN CONGRESS —ROAST ON THE TARIFF

Washington, May 5.—The House of Representatives can boast of another humorist in the person of Congressman Kent, of California. During a dignified debate on the "farmers' free list" bill, Mr. Kent opened with an amusing "roast" on the tariff laws in general, as his maiden effort, and ended with the following poem, which threw the House into an uproar:

"He makes it clear to me
That what I lose I gain, you see;
And on such things as clothes and shoes

I seem to gain, but really lose.
Thus, if I buy my socks too low,
They'll still be higher—he says so—
And shoes I thought were high last fall.

Were really low shoes after all.
If I pay less for shoes,
Or hats, the maker has to lose;
And if he loses, then, you see,
He charges up the loss to me.
Now when I have to pay him more,
He reckons profits to his store,
And Duncan finds a share for me
In all this prosperity.

The speeches shed a radiant light
Upon the theme and make it bright;
I merely read them o'er and o'er
To find more's less and less is more.
In buying hat, or coat or vest,
Dear's cheap, and cheap is dear at best;
High's low, low's high,
Far's near, near's far,
White's black, black's white—
And there you are."

FLIES SHUN BLUE PAINT. ALSO HOPS, SAYS DOCTOR

Dr. J. S. Crumline, Secretary of the State Board of Health, has learned of two methods by which the common house fly can be kept away from the kitchens and barns. One is to paint the barn and kitchen blue, almost any shade, and the other is to grow hops around the doors. The blue-paint idea came from France, where two scientists, Mar-and Fe, in the course of some experiments with flies, found that the cow stables which were painted blue inside were avoided by flies. It was also observed that the kitchens and dining rooms which were papered in blue or painted blue, also seemed to be devoid of flies, as homes within a few feet where the blue paint or paper was used, were infested by the pests.

Dr. Crumline is working out some experiments himself regarding the growing of hops round the kitchen door. A missionary from India told Dr. Crumline that hops were used by the natives of India in place of screens. The hop vines were allowed to grow all over the little huts, and the people were never bothered with flies. Dr. Crumline and several of his assistants set out hop vines around the back doors. The vines are growing all over the buildings, and Dr. Crumline is watching the vines patiently to note whether or not the hops are really effective against the flies.—[Topeka Cor. Kansas City Star.]

POTATO HILL PHILOSOPHY.

The trouble with modesty is that half the time if you don't butt in you don't get in.

Every widow's money is exaggerated.

A prophet and seer occasionally makes a good guess; but usually he is insane.

Employer and employee know each other almost as well as husband and wife, and are almost as quarrelsome.

I have robbed myself oftener than others have robbed me.

Your dog doesn't amount to anything, of course, but you hate to see another man kick it or another dog whip it.

What contempt an idle man's women folks have for him!

Hell disappeared long ago, except as members of the human family raise it.

Unless a man amounts to a good deal he should not say he has done his best.

Every man must do his own reform work; he cannot delegate a leader to do it for him.

When a man wants to fight, don't hold him; let the man he wants to fight hold him.

Had the old-fashioned children acted as the present generation are acting, there would have been no children; their parents would have beaten them to death.

A certain woman has caused three men to be shot in six years. That's too many.

The best of them like to play a little with fire.

Why are women's stockings so long and men's socks so short?

Whatever a man's age, when he hears a dog barking in the woods he has a desire to go and see what the dog has treed.

When a man can't afford to build a two-story house his wife calls it a bungalow.—[From E. W. Howe's Monthly.]

A GREAT GATHERING OF TRAVELING MEN

Huntington, (W. Va.) will, in June, be the gathering place for more traveling men and their families, than any other city the State has ever entertained in its history. The Grand Council, made up of representatives from Maryland, the Virginias, Kentucky and the District of Columbia, will be on hand, as well as hundreds of others who always attend these meetings. Huntington will be at its best in June, and every one who comes will receive the best of treatment. Preparations are being made to take care of a large crowd, and there is no danger of anyone not being suited with the entertainment to be provided by the local committees. The out-of-town merchants and buyers have special invitations to attend this meeting, thereby affording those who call upon you every week or month, in a business way, to entertain you socially. The Chamber of Commerce, Board of Trade, and Business Men's Clubs are co-operating with the traveling men to make the meeting a great success.

The Real Reason.

Adam sat down. "I am the greatest man in the world," he said to himself; "the wisest sage, the biggest financier and captain of industry; I hold all the records from the hundred-yard dash to the Marathon; my wife is the best dressed woman in the world; I am the best dressed man. Gadzoos, I am too good to be true; I will eat of the fruit of the tree of Evil."—[Life.]

What's the Use

A Clean Man

Outside cleanliness is less than half the battle. A man may scrub himself a dozen times a day, and still be unclean. Good health means cleanliness not only outside, but inside. It means a clean stomach, clean bowels, clean blood, a clean liver, and new, clean, healthy tissues. The man who is clean in this way will look it and act it. He will work with energy and think clean, clear, healthy thoughts.

He will never be troubled with liver, lung, stomach or blood disorders. Dyspepsia and indigestion originate in unclean stomachs. Blood diseases are found where there is unclean blood. Consumption and bronchitis mean unclean lungs.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery

prevents these diseases. It makes a man's insides clean and healthy. It cleans the digestive organs, makes pure, clean blood, and clean, healthy flesh.

It restores tone to the nervous system, and cures nervous exhaustion and prostration. It contains no alcohol or habit-forming drugs. Constipation is the most unclean uncleanness. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure it. They never gripe. Easy to take as candy.

NATURE TELLS YOU

As Many a Hartford Reader Knows
Too Well.

When the kidneys are sick,
Nature tells you all about it.
The urine is nature's calendar.
Infrequent or too frequent action;
Any urinary trouble tells of kidney ills.

Doan's Kidney Pills cure all kidney
ills.

People in this vicinity testify to this.

Mrs. Ann E. Dorman, 619 Crittenden St., Owensboro, Ky., says: "Our son, aged sixteen years, was troubled by weak kidneys. He was compelled to pass the kidney secretions too frequently, which was very annoying.
We read of Doan's Kidney Pills and seeing what other people were saying about them, decided to give them a trial. They removed the difficulty and our boy is now in good health."

A good Country Campbell Cylinder Press. Has been displaced by a large two-revolution Cottrell. Will sell cheap. For further particulars address The Herald.

Kentucky will have to mend her ways—her roadways, we mean—before she will ever amount to much.

An Albany, N. Y., lady refuses to speak to others of her sex who wear feathers on their hats. Wonder what she'd do if she met a fellow with a rabbit foot on his watch fob?

The Danville Semi-Weekly Messenger has rounded out the first year of its publication with flying colors. It is one of the best papers in the State and Editor Louis Landram is making it better with every issue.

Mr. H. A. Sommers, editor of the Elizabethtown News, has gracefully declined to enter the race for Lieutenant Governor on the Democratic ticket. He says he has no office-seeking ambitions and prefers to remain in the ranks of the party. Mr. Sommers is popular with all classes and would have run a strong race.

Twenty-one American republics have presented Andrew Carnegie with a handsome gold medal, as a tribute to his efforts in behalf of world-peace. Now if Andy will turn his attention and his millions towards helping thousands of deserving poor of the earth to make peace with poverty and starvation, his medal will come to him at the Judgment Day.

The Herald is kindly disposed towards the candidacy of Hon. Wm. Addams for Governor, therefore it has not printed one of those horrible looking pictures of him which have been floating through the columns of the Kentucky press, although a cut for the purpose, furnished by one of the well known plate factories, has been on hand for more than a month. Mr. Addams ought to call that electro in before it gets any further.

Responding to the suggestion of the Muhlenberg Argus that Owensboro should have a curfew ordinance for married men, the Inquirer indignantly rejects the proposition and gives as its reason that "Owensboro has about fifty lodges now and is organizing new ones every week." We are familiar with the old excuse of married men who stay out late of nights that they "have been to the lodge," but this is the first time we have seen this dead secret (?) exposed in newspaper columns.

Upon the second page of The Herald to-day will be found an article from the Shelby Sentinel concerning the candidacy of Hon. William Addams, of Harrison county, for the Democratic nomination for Governor. Mr. Addams is a most excellent gentleman and fully qualified for the office which he seeks. He has gained greatly in popularity with Kentucky voters of late, and should he be nominated, there is no doubt that he would lead the party to victory. He has a large following which is gaining every day in all sections of the State.

When it comes to fixing up a nice, smooth platform, embracing all in this life worth living for and condemning everything that even looks bad; with all the planks polished to a finish and grained with all the platitudes and beatitudes to be found in the political curriculum, Judge O'Rear seems to have one of the finest specimens of the kind extant. Evidently, however, it is for exhibit purposes only, as it outlines more than any Governor of Kentucky would ever be able to execute, and the Legislature and the judgeships seem very insignificant institutions when ranged alongside of it.

Dr. Wiley, chief chemist of the Department of Agriculture, has sounded a timely warning against the promiscuous buying of headache remedies by the people. He intimates that people who recklessly throw headache tablets into their stomach are playing tag with eternity. The Doctor is right. Most headache tablets are composed of stuff of which the druggist himself is ignorant. Their principal ingredient is usually something that will slow up the heart's action, and sometimes it acts like hitting the face of a clock with a brickbat—puts an end to time. Better use a simple remedy or consult a doctor.

So long as the Government of the United States stands as a tacit partner of the liquor interests in their nefarious business, just so long will the Prohibition question remain a much vexed problem in this country. The Government virtually says to the liquor man "We know your business is demoralizing; that it fills penitentiaries, poorhouses and insane asylums and creates many thousands of widows, orphans and paupers, but if you will only give us $1.10 on every gallon of your product, you can just go ahead." The bargain is a mutual financial affair. Liquor will continue to be bought and sold, more or less, so long as the process goes on with Governmental sanction.

THE THIRD HOUSE AND ITS CONSTANT MENACE

One of the worst menaces of the public welfare to-day is the "third house," which convenes with the assembling of almost every legislative body. Its members are the lobbyists and bribe-givers who stand like evil angels at the side of many honest legislators. Their presence is both recognized and felt, but their abolishment is one of the serious problems that confront the law-making bodies of the present time.

Perhaps the legislature has never really been in earnest about abolishing the "third house." Whenever a majority of the House and Senate decide to put the "third house" out of business, they will find some way of doing it. Of course there are a lot of fellows who get themselves elected to the General Assembly because of the "third house." They want to get to the capital in the capacity of a law-maker for no other purpose than to reap the reward which comes to the wretch who places money above principle. They care nothing for the welfare of the people they represent. They possess no honor except the kind that exists among thieves. For a few dollars they will sell out the rights of the people to a grinding monopoly. They know no code of honor, and treachery to their constituency is the thing they barter.

Of course these rascals would find some way to "be seen" by those who want to buy up the peoples' representatives like a stock dealer buys up a drove of hogs or a herd of cattle, but to drive the "third house" out of the capitol building or into the penitentiary, would at least put an end to the brazen publicity with which the bribe-giver plays his infamous vocation.

BRYAN MAKING HEADWAY—MAY BE "RECALLED"

"Keep your eye on Bryan," said a shrewd Democrat the other day. Those who heard the suggestion have done so, and they find that Mr. Bryan is making great strides. The Nebraskan is a good politician now—a cunning judge of popular sentiment and a keen forecaster. He does not work wholly in the open, exposed to the enemy's bullets. The Democratic situation changes daily in these glorious times, and hour by hour it is apparent that the wheel of Bryan's fortune is turning upward.

When a scrutiny is made of the job lot of progressive plans proposed by reformers of all parties, it is discovered that most of these ideas were proposed by Mr. Bryan long ago. If the credit is to go to the inventor, progressives will have to make way for Mr. Bryan. If the radicals really mean business, they will turn to the man who deals in radicalism by wholesale, and not by retail.

Many of Mr. Bryan's friends are for the recall. They may decide to apply recall to him, and make him come forward again. As events are shaping themselves, it may be in Mr. Bryan's power not only to prevent the nomination of any Democrat he opposes, but to nominate the man he prefers. But, like some other great commanders, he takes the sense of his followers, and if he should find them stubbornly opposed to his own choice, and determined to name Bryan himself—well, the people ought to have the right of recall.

The new Nicaraguan Assembly has authorized President Estrada to contract an American loan. It is said the loan will amount to between $12,000,000 and $20,000,000. The money is to be used to fund debts, build railroads and establish a gold standard.

NOTED FARMERS' FREE LIST BILL

And Other Progressive Legislation

PASSED BY THE DEMOCRATS

In the House, Opposed by Republicans, Headed by Vice President.

TAFT AGAINST PROGRESSIVES

(Special Correspondence by Clyde H. Tavenner.)

Washington, May 8.—That reactionary Republicans in the Senate are lying in wait for the farmers' free list bill and other progressive legislation passed by the Democratic House, is becoming more evident every day. The motive is two-fold, to protect the profits of the tariff trusts, and to prevent, if possible, the Democrats from carrying out promises made to the people.

The group of Senate Tories is still able to exert a tremendous influence upon legislation. Having packed the important committees with men who take the corporation viewpoint of the particular legislation to come before those committees, the reactionaries are in a position to continue serving special privilege by obstructing and perhaps preventing the passage of measures desired by the people.

Among those whom the public may safely rely upon to oppose most of the progressive House measures, are Ballinger, Smoot, Lorimer, Gugenheim, Stephenson, Lodge, Oliver, Warren, Perkins and a dozen others, who will at all times have the hearty co-operation of Vice President Sherman.

Back of this group of reactionaries are arrayed the tariff trusts, the railroads, Wall street, Standard Oil and the balance of the organized wealth of the country.

The Democrats and progressive Republicans are pitted against this combination. The two forces will, when necessary, combine to prevent the passage of a bad bill, but they will be helpless at times to prevent the Tories from obstructing the passage of Democratic legislation such as the free list bill.

About the only thing the average citizen can do is to keep tab on the votes of his individual representative in both House and Senate, noting particularly whether they vote for or against legislation desired by the people, and when election time rolls around, to act accordingly.

Taft Antagonizes Progressives. President Taft took the leading part in the fight against giving the progressive Republicans of the Senate the committee places they demanded, which fight resulted in leaving all the big Senate committees the same citadels of special privilege that they were in the previous Congress.

Before the Republican caucus was held, the regular Republicans of the Senate signed an agreement by which they agreed to give the progressives a one-fourth representation on all committees. Senator Penrose, who signed the agreement for the regulars, is said to have bitterly arraigned his regular colleagues for putting him in position of breaking his political word, which he declared he had always especially prided himself upon keeping inviolate.

It now develops that Penrose's breach of faith with progressives was forced by White House pressure. President Taft considers progressives like La Follette his personal enemies, and he does not want them in a position to assist in bringing about the passage of legislation like the farmers free list bill, which they could do by combining with the Democrats if given the representation on the big committees to which their numerical strength entitles them.

A Burglar's Awful Deed

May not paralyze a home so completely as a mother's long illness. But Dr. King's New Life Pills are a splendid remedy for women. "They gave me wonderful benefit in constipation and female trouble," wrote Mrs. M. C. Dunlay, of Leadville, Tenn. If ailing, try them. 25c at James H. Williams.

POSTMASTER GENERAL TO BE INVESTIGATED

The inquiry to be made by the House of Representatives into the political machine of Postmaster General Frank Hitchcock is one in which the whole country will be interested. The resolution of inquiry directs the postoffice committee to determine how much political work is performed by postmasters and subordinate officers in the post-offices of the country, and by what authority they neglect their official duties and violate the civil service law. It has long been charged that through postoffice department patronage the Postmaster General has established a machine for the control of delegates to the national conventions.

MADE TWO ATTEMPTS TO LYNCH NEGROES

But Failed—Blacks Had Killed Policeman Who Arrested Them.

Lebanon, Ky., May 7.—Police-man John Robey was killed by Jas. Buckner and Jesse Smith, negroes, early to-day, when he was taking them to the workhouse. Smith held the policeman while Buckner stabbed him 18 times. Smith was caught this afternoon hiding in a negro cabin in the West End. A mob sought to lynch him, but Police Chief Yowell and Sheriff Burhan rushed the prisoner to Louisville.

Buckner was captured this evening and lodged in jail. A crowd stormed the prison, and while the Mayor, County Attorney and prominent citizens appealed to the mob to let the law take its course, Buckner was slipped out and also rushed to Louisville.

Mayor Spaulding called the City Council in special session early this morning and a reward was offered for the capture of the negroes. Governor Willson later increased the amount.

All day crowds were parading the streets and for a time a race riot was feared.

DELEGATES NAMED TO ATTEND K. OF P. MEETING

At the regular meeting of Rough River Lodge No. 110, Knights of Pythias Tuesday night of last week, it was voted that twenty-five members be selected by Chancellor Commander J. B. Tappan to represent the local lodge at the Fifth District meeting of the Knights of Pythias, that meets at Owensboro for one day—Friday, May 26. Already many from this city have signified their willingness and desire to go, and it is thought that Rough River lodge will be well represented. The following were specially appointed to attend the convention, and it is the desire of the lodge that all who can do so, attend:

C. M. Taylor and J. H. Thomas, of Beaver Dam; Z. Harrell, of Rockport; W. E. Ashby, of Centertown; M. B. Barnard, Morris Barnett, B. S. Chamberlin, E. P. Moore, O. R. Tinsley, W. H. Rhoads, Fred Miller, W. J. Bean, A. E. Pate John T. Moore, Rev. J. W. Bruner, Dr. H. J. Bell, R. D. Walker, W. R. Carson, J. S. Ford, Albert Rial, J. W. Sanderfur, R. E. Lee Simmerman, L. M. Ward, J. C. Iler, and J. H. B. Carson.

A Wise Selection.

The school board met last Friday and re-elected Prof. C. C. Justus as principal of Ballard County High School for the next two years. This is a very wise selection. The term now drawing to a close, under the management of Prof. Justus, has been the best managed and most thoroughly taught of any in the history of our school. We are certainly glad the Board of Education decided to keep Mr. Justus at the head of our school. We predict for it much greater success during the next two years than in the past.

FAIR'S Exclusive Styles

We certainly feel very much gratified over our immense sale of Ladies' and Men's Oxfords. Although the weather has been cool and unsettled, our steady sale of these goods go on, thus showing that folks who care for style and value, know where to make their purchases.

A word about our Patrician Shoes for Ladies. There is snap and style about them that are not found in other lines. Then the wear—none like them for it; fit the foot PERFECTLY and HOLD the SHAPE. Twenty years' experience with our Priesmier line, for a cheaper grade shoe, gives us an opportunity to KNOW SOMETHING, so we can say that WE POSITIVELY KNOW they will wear. A new pair if they do not. BE WISE, examine our Shoe stock before buying and remember it pays to trade with a house that saves you money.

Invitations have been received in Hartford announcing the marriage of Miss Margaret Ola Hoover to Mr. Walter T. F. Zimmerman, the happy event to occur at the home of the bride in Altus, Okla., on Thursday, May 25. Before they moved to Oklahoma several years ago, Miss Hoover lived with her parents at Friedland, this county. She also attended Hartford College and is well known here. Many friends here wish her and her chosen mate much happiness in wedded life.

The lecture at the court house here last Friday night by J. W. Porter, D. D., of Lexington, under the auspices of the Baraca class of Hartford Baptist Church, was well attended and hugely enjoyed by all present. Dr. Porter evinced his ability as an entertainer in a splendid manner. His lecture abounded in pathos and humor, which alternately convulsed his audience with laughter or touched them to tears. It was a high class entertainment in every respect and gave the fullest satisfaction to those who attended.

Mr. Ernest Brown, living near Echols, Ky., was in Hartford Monday and while at The Herald office, showed us the strangest curiosity in the way of a hen's egg we have ever seen. When broken by his wife a few days ago to make a pan of corn bread, it was a complete egg of a little larger than ordinary size, with another egg, shell and all, inside of it. Neither egg had any yolk in it, the inner egg being surrounded by the ordinary clear portion. We have seen curiously formed eggs of various kinds, but this is certainly a new wrinkle in the egg line.

Dr. A. B. Baird vs. Ohio County.

The suit of Dr. A. B. Baird against Ohio county was tried the second time before Judge Evans at Owensboro last Tuesday night, the court having overruled a motion of the attorneys for the county for trial by jury. The evidence being heard, the court took the matter under advisement, with leave for the attorneys, pro and con, to file brief. From the statement of the court, the plaintiff cannot, in any event, recover over $400 in excess of the $5,500 heretofore paid by the county. It is contended by counsel for the county that after the amounts as shown to have been paid, in the Sheriff's settlement, are deducted from plaintiff's claim, he will fall short of any basis for a judgment. It will, in all probability, be several weeks before Judge Evans hands down his decision. It is also announced that if any judgment should be rendered against the county, the case will be taken to the United States Court of Appeals.

Will Soon Install Switchboard.

The Ohio County Farmers' Co-operative Telephone Company now have the polls on the ground preparatory to building a line into and installing a switchboard in Hartford. When completed this will put Hartford in connection with nearly all the farm houses in the southern and southwestern part of Ohio county, with Butler and Muhlenberg county connections.

BEAVER DAM.

May 8.—Quite an excitement prevailed in our town Sunday morning. As the church bells were ringing for Sunday School, it was discovered that the Baptist Church was on fire. The news spread over town and the good Methodist brethren came to our assistance with fire extinguishers and by the time they arrived, plenty of water and a ladder were ready. Notwithstanding the fire, which was in the roof, was under good headway, it was soon extinguished, after which each denomination returned to their own Sunday School. We very much appreciate and are very thankful to our Methodist brethren and also the brethren of the Christian church who so readily came to our assistance, for had they not been prompt, our church house no doubt would have been a pile of ashes to-day. It was regular meeting day at the Baptist church and being the communion day, there was a large crowd present.

Some of the farmers tell us that the recent big rain did good in one respect—it washed the green bugs off the wheat, which looks very promising at present.

Since the few sunny days, there are no farmers to be seen on our streets and if clear weather prevails another week, there will likely be more corn planted than was ever planted in this section in the same length of time.

Mrs. Procin McKinney, who has been visiting the family of J. D. Tanner, of Rockwood, Tenn., has returned home.

THE CLOSING EXERCISES OF HARTFORD COLLEGE

Occur Next Week, Commencing
Sunday—A Fine Program Arranged.

The annual Commencement Exercises will begin Sunday, May 14, with the baccalaureate sermon at the Baptist church by Rev. Couch, of Owensboro. On Monday and Tuesday nights the pupils of the Fifth, Sixth, Seventh and Eighth grades will present an interesting program under the direction of Profs. Hedrick and Ellis. The remainder of the week will be given to the work of the High School.

On Wednesday evening eight young men and women will engage in a declamatory contest for a gold medal offered by the Board of Education.

Thursday evening the High School students will present two high-class amateur plays.

The exercises will close Friday evening with the graduation of the Senior class.

The exercises will be held at Dr. Bean's Opera House.

To defray the necessary expenses, a small admission fee will be charged the first four nights.

All friends and patrons of the school are invited to be present.

The Wheat Growers

Of Ohio County will meet at the court house in Hartford next Saturday, May 13. A full attendance is desired.

PROF. SMITH'S SPEECH AT BENNETT'S SCHOOLHOUSE

Bennett's Schoolhouse, Ky., May 6.—Prof. Thos. H. Smith, Vice President of Hartford College, delivered one of the most excellent addresses on the subject of "Agriculture in the Common Schools and Organization of Farmers," we have had the opportunity of listening to in a long time, here to-day.

Prof. Smith was logical, eloquent and pathetic in his address. His description of the farmer's sweet and well-regulated home being ruthlessly torn up by the heavy hand of the money-grabber, brought tears to the eyes of many. Mr. Smith is certainly very strong on the necessity of farmers organizing and sticking together. He gave the finest reasons for close organization among farmers we have ever heard. We certainly wish that every farmer could have heard the speech. We should be very glad if Prof. Smith would find it to his interest to remain in our county. We commend him to any community which desires a splendid address on moral or educational subjects.

Church Building Saved.

Beaver Dam, Ky., May 8.—Owing to the timely action of the townspeople, and especially the Methodist and Baptist brethren living near, a fire which would have destroyed the Baptist Church here was soon extinguished.

The roof caught from a defective flue, about nine o'clock Sunday morning, damaging it to the extent of about $10.00.

Speaking for the members, I wish to thank all those who assisted in saving our church.

REVISION OF TEN COMMANDMENTS

Urged By Canon of Cathedral of St. John.

THINKS SHORTER FORM BETTER

And More Comprehensive as Applied to Our Every-Day Affairs.

VIEWERS CREATE A SENSATION

Washington, May 4.—Revision of the Ten Commandments—the original and shortened form—was urged here by Rev. George B. Williams, Douglas, Canon of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, of New York, upon the twenty-ninth Congress of the Protestant Episcopal Church. The proposed revision follows:

1. God spake these words and said: I am the Lord thy God; thou shalt have none other Gods but Me.

2. Thou shalt not make to thyself any graven image to worship it and serve it.

3. Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord thy God in vain.

4. Remember that thou keep holy the Sabbath Day. Six days shalt thou labor.

5. Honor thy father and thy mother.

6. Thou shalt do no murder.

7. Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbor.

8. Thou shalt not commit adultery.

9. Thou shalt not steal.

10. Thou shalt not covet thy neighbor's goods.

Dr. Douglas's views created a mild sensation among the attending portion of the decalogue.

"Let us have the courage," he said, "to restore our prayer-book version of the Ten Commandments to what scholars are pretty well agreed was the original and shorter form, and let us drop the inflated clauses wherewith some ancient scribes spoiled the magnificent proportion of the decalogue."

"Why should we not revise here and there on lines suggested again in Canon Scott Holland's magazine?" Dr. Douglas continued.

"Why may we not follow the example of the Roman and the Lutheran churches and have the courage to restore our prayer-book version of the Ten Commandments to what scholars are pretty generally agreed was the original and shorter form, so that we shall not weary our congregations with oxen and asses and slaves which they do not possess?"

"There is a great social movement going on in America as elsewhere in the Christian world, and ministers of other denominations elsewhere have showed how working people and so-called Socialists can be gathered in Christian churches and attracted to public worship there."

"But in order to hold and benefit these people, we must have one alternative prayer-book or an appendix, not enforced, but permitted, for our book of common prayer is unsuitable, and our hymnal, too."

"The minister who has the Christian cross stamped upon his soul will not compromise it if he speaks and prays in a language intelligible to those who have yet many steps to take before they will bow at the holy name."

"Any concession to the need of prayer-book revision is not radicalism, but an act of reverence for religion—of insistence that religion shall be real. It will not do for serious Christians to be stayed by the dead hand."

Rev. Percy S. Grant, of New York, supported Dr. Douglas in his plea for revision. A strong opposition developed among the conservative element of the convention headed by Rev. Henry R. Gummly, of Haddonfield, N. J., and Rev. Cyrus Townsend Brady, of Kansas City, Mo. The Congress not being a legislative body, no action was taken.

Justice Lurton, of the United States Supreme Court, and Seth Low, of New York, were elected laymen members of the General Committee.

BOY AND GOAT CULTIVATE A FINE FIELD OF CORN

Lack of modern agricultural equipment were no odds to a 15-year-old boy of Rogers Ark., according to an illustrated article appearing in the May number of Popular Mechanics. With the help of his billy goat, the boy hauled manure fertilizer to the field in a small packing-box cart, and then plowed the flintrock-strewn ground with a little iron plow drawn by the goat. The yield of 50 bushels of corn from this acre of rocky ground is one of the finest instances the Agricultural Department has to demonstrate the possibilities of shallow cultivation after careful preparation.

WHERE IS MOTHER?

A little fellow came running to a neighbor's house and there were tears in his eyes and anxiety on his face as he said:

"Do you know where my mamma is? I came home from school and she is not at home."

A little girl met a friend on the street and said: "I want mamma; have you seen her?"

A tiny tot stood at the window in charge of an older child and peering out, said: "Why don't mamma come?"

"Where is mother?" shouts the big boy, as he dashes into the house.

"Has she fixed that rip in my coat?"

"Where can mother be?" says the big girl who wants her waist all buttoned up behind, that she may go to the opera house.

"Where is your mother, children?" asks the husband and father, as he comes in from his work and looks about.

Is it not simply wonderful how many people want mother? Is she not the most important person, the most needed person, the busiest person in all the wide world? If she is not at home, how quickly her absence is observed. If she should go to a neighbor's just for a moment, she would surely be wanted at home. If she goes out for an evening, she is probably called to the phone and told to come home quick, because the baby is sick, or Jack has cut his finger, or Julia has the headache, or pa is lonesome.

Mother has the only hands that can banish the pain, the only voice that will soothe to sleep, the only kiss that will heal the bruise, the only words that will settle the dispute. She is the only one who knows where every single thing is kept, and so she is in constant demand, and, if absent from home, is most sadly missed.

Little boy, little girl, big boy, big girl, I do not know just where your mother is now, but, wherever she is, she is ministering to you and thinking of you, and sacrificing for you, and living for you. And, if, as it must be in the case of some of you, she has gone out of the home forever, yet believe me, God is true, and as the resurrection is true, your mother, somewhere and somehow, is ministering to you.—[Salina (Kan.) ### KENTUCKY'S SMALLEST MAN DIES AT HICKMAN

Hickman, Ky., May 5.—Willie Williams, aged 18 years, died at the home of his uncle, Caleb Kelley, in West Hickman, after several weeks' illness. He had the reputation of being the smallest man in Kentucky. He was not more than waist high to the average man, or about 45 inches, and his legs were exceedingly short in proportion to the size of his body. His head was much larger than the head of the ordinary man. He was a son of Henry Williams, of this city, who is six feet tall.

THE APPOMATOX APPLE TREE STORY

Says Lee Did Not Surrender Under It,

AS TRADITION HAS TAUGHT

Us to Believe, But It Was in the Parlor of Wilmer McLean.

APPLE TREE FIGURES IN IT

Paragraphs have recently been appearing in newspapers that a young apple tree is to be planted to replace the old apple tree under which Lee surrendered to Grant at Appomattox, says the Washington Star.

This apple tree legend survives the years and all attacks upon it. It is such a pleasing legend, blending poetry and tragedy, botany and arms, that people persist in believing it. These fruit tree legends, the Grant apple tree and the George Washington cherry tree, are a great deal harder than the fruit trees themselves and live to a ripe age.

The apple tree story has very little fact to sustain it. Lee did not surrender under an apple tree, but in the parlor, on the right of the entrance of the house of Wilmer McLean, which sat back in a big garden on the main street of the village of Appomattox, about one square from the court house. Gen. Lee and his military secretary, Col. Marshall, entered the McLean house at 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon of April 9, 1865. Gen. Grant was already there, accompanied by Gens. Sheridan, Ord, Ingalls, Rawlins, Seth Williams, John G. Barnard, and Cols. Horace Porter, Orville E. Babcock, Ely S. Parker, Theodore S. Bowers, Frederick T. Dent and Adam Badeau. The articles of surrender were agreed to, written and signed, the conference was concluded at 4 o'clock and at 4:30 o'clock Grant sent the dispatch to Secretary Stanton announcing the surrender of the Army of Northern Virginia.

An apple tree and an apple orchard figure in the events leading up to the surrender and it may take some of the bloom off the story to announce that April, 1865, was a backward month, and that at the time of the surrender there was not a leaf or a blossom on any trees around Appomattox court house.

The old orchard long ago disappeared and the village of Appomattox has very nearly disappeared. The court house burned down something over fifteen years ago, and a new one was built at Appomattox Station, on the Norfolk and Western railroad, three miles southwest of the surrender village.

Nevertheless the Appomattox apple tree story blooms perennially.

A WONDERFUL COUNTRY—TALENTS ARE DISCOUNTED

"I have found that editors do not really know what the people want," said one of the speakers at the mass meeting held to uplift and denature the comic supplement.

This requires no proof. The newer standards of reform and criticism have shown that nobody in this country knows anything about the matters that he is paid to know about.

The current literature of progress has conclusively demonstrated that railroad managers know little or nothing about managing railroads; that doctors know nothing about doctoring; that writers cannot write; that educators cannot educate; that farmers are ignorant of farming; that legislators have never grasped the first principles of legislation; that bricklayers cannot lay brick; that Judges do not and cannot administer justice, that administrators are mostly destitute of administrative skill; that theatrical managers know little about the stage; that women cannot keep house; that publishers are scarcely more than half-witted in their selection of books to publish; that lawyers no longer know law; that architects cannot design buildings; that fathers and mothers are unfit to bring up children, and that somebody else knows more about everything than everybody else.

We are a wonderful people and this is a wonderful country. Think of all the advancement we have made in spite of the fact that every American citizen seems to be engaged in an occupation for which he has neither talent nor capacity. —[New York World.]

SHREWD SAYINGS OF OLD MRS. SOLOMON.

Verily, verily, what would ye have, oh man, what WOULD ye have?

When we were as playthings, ye sighed for a soul-mate! And now that we have become soul-mates, ye pine for a playmate!

When we were as kittens, ye purred as kittens; but ye despised our kittenish ways and longed for an INTELLECTUAL companion.

Yet, now that we have become highbrows, ye sigh for a sofa pillow.

When we were "clinging vines" ye chafed at the marriage tie and admonished us for our "weakness;" yet, now that we have become strong as "oaks," ye cry out at our "unwomanliness."

When we covered ourselves with cold cream and curl papers ye shuddered at our vanity; yet, now that we have cast those things aside, ye shudder at our trouserettes.

Lo, when we followed ye about with hot water bottles and solicitude and sentiment ye called it "nagging." Yet, now that we no longer tag after ye as poodles, ye call us forward and "unsympathetic."

When we were butterflies ye sighed under the burden of our support and complained that we were brainless spendthrifts. Yet, now that we have become grubs and earn our own living, ye declare us "unfeminine" and exclaim that we are taking your jobs from ye and the bread from out your mouths.

When we were foolish ye deceived us and mocked at us; yet now that we have become "wise," ye complain that we are all cynics.

When we were "frilly" ye waxed exceedingly sarcastic at the folly of our frills; yet, now that we have become sensible and tailor-made, ye shudder at our divided skirts and mannish ways.

What then WILL ye have, O man? For we would be as ye desire us. Yet how shall we discover what ye desire if ye know not what ye WANT yourselves?—[Helen Rowland in Chicago Journal.]

THE GINGER CHAP.

There is always something doing for the energetic chap

Who has put a little ginger in his shoes;

For the twiddler and the fiddler Fortune doesn't care a rap,

Nor for switchmen who are always on the snooze!

It's the man who bright and early can be settled on the job,

With brain alert and jaw of steel, and square.

Who would find fair Fame attaching medals to his little fob—

Where they hustle, Luck is never far from there.

Sure, the world is full of sluggards, but they have their purpose, too,

For they teach the Ginger Chap what to avoid!

And the weaklings, who were never known to push a project through—

They are Morals for the Ginger unalloyed!

Every bug that's known to scurry has his usefulness in life—

Every sleeper makes somebody else enliven;

But the man who plucks the cherries when the tales of drouth are rife

Is the chap who puts some Ginger in his shoes.

We are brothers all—just brothers—and the world is mighty sweet

To the man whose heart is in fraternal grip;

And we get our strength, ye Strong Ones, from the weaker ones we meet—

From the ones we catch, perchance, when they would slip.

So, as onward we are pushing, let us stop a little while

Where the weary faint, and heartless fear to lose—

Just to lend a hand to others, puts some sunshine in the smile

Of the fellow with the ginger in his shoes.

Do Ghosts Haunt Swamps?

No, never. It's foolish to fear fancied evil, when there are real and deadly perils to guard against in swamps and marshes, bayous, and lowlands. These are the malarial germs that cause ague, chills and fever, weakness, aches in the bones and muscles and may induce deadly typhoid. But Electric Bitters destroys and casts out these vicious germs from the blood. "Three bottles drove all the malaria from my system," wrote Wm. Fretwell, of Lucama, N. C., "and I've had fine health ever since." Use this safe, sure remedy only. 50c at James H. Williams.

A NOTE TO "JAILER MAN" EXPLAINED SITUATION

Leitchfield, Ky., May 4.—Leitchfield's jail is empty and the four prisoners it contained—Logan Gary, William Drury, and James Cave, white, and John Price, a Louisville negro—have left for parts unknown, only Price being thoughtful enough to sympathize with the jailer in his troubles.

The negro, who appeared to be grateful to the jailer for a few favors done him, left the following letter:

"Dear Mr. Jailer Man: I hate to leave you, but I have no money nor friends here but you, and it is so long until next court. I am going with the other fellows. I will be back next September. Don't be uneasy."

The prisoners made their escape from the jail by sawing their way through an air grate in the second story of the jail and letting themselves down to the ground with bedclothes tied together.

All of the men are charged with minor offenses. The saws were found in Cave's bed. He tried to escape once before. Officials are searching for the fugitives.

HOW FARMER BILLY SCULLY PLAYED FOR THE COW

It was at the Fair Grounds in New Orleans one winter that Billy Scully, of Kentucky, decided to cut out betting and to content himself with the purses that his horses would pick up. Not only did he cut out betting, but he went out of his way to tell folk of his determination to stay away from the books.

About a week after he had made his declaration a friend found him chasing about in the ring and betting his money.

"Thought you had cut it out," said his friend.

"So I have," answered Scully, "but I bought acow for $40 this morning and I'm just going to win her out."

Later in the day Scully was still betting and the friend asked him if he had not yet won out the cow.

"Not yet," answered Scully cheerfully. "She's cost me $250 up to this time, but I'll win her out if it takes all winter."

Stomach Troubles Cured by Vinol

"I suffered so long from stomach trouble and indigestion, that I lost flesh rapidly—VINOL cured me after everything else had failed. Mr. Thos. G. Wallace, of Detroit, Mich., writes, "I suffered for years from a chronic stomach trouble. VINOL entirely cured me after everything else had failed."

It is the curative medicinal elements of the cod's liver, combined with the strengthening properties of tonic iron contained in VINOL, which makes it so successful in restoring perfect digestion, and at the same time building up the weakened run-down system.

JOHNSON CHAIRMAN

House District Committee of the Present Congress

HIS CAREER AND PERSONALITY

A Successful Politician, He Has Been Speaker of the Kentucky House, and Was Elected to the State Senate to Insure an Additional Vote For Blackburn.

BY WALLACE BROWN, Editor of the Kentucky Standard, Bardstown, Ky.

[Reprinted from the Washington, D. C., Herald.]

Ben Johnson, representative in congress from the Fourth Kentucky district, who is to be appointed chairman of the committee on the District of Columbia in the next congress, has an unusually interesting history. The activities of his life have been varied. Politics has received much attention, business has occupied a prominent place, his friends have never been neglected, and regardless of the great demands upon his time and energies, he is the most domestic of men and spends a goodly portion of his hours with his family.

In 1858 he was born at the Johnson homestead, formerly owned by his father, the late Gov. William Johnson, and now owned by the present congressman. The residence of the Johnsons is one of the most homelike in Kentucky, modest, yet handsome in its rustic simplicity, located one mile from Bardstown, on the Louisville pike, and surrounded by a variety of large shade trees. It was erected by Ky., daughter of the late W. F. Kouwenbergh. Their married life has been a very happy one, the loss of their only son, Ben Johnson, Jr., being the only cloud to dim the brightness of their wedded history. The three daughters, Mrs. J. D. Talbott and Misses Nancy and Hendy Johnson, are the pride of the Johnson home and are adored by Mr. and Mrs. Johnson. Several months ago Congressman Johnson became a grandfather, and today the little grandson, Master Talbott, shares the time of the busy congressman. Mrs. Johnson is a talented woman, her chief forte being music. She is state regent of the Daughters of the American Revolution in Kentucky.

Speaker of the Kentucky House.

Being re-elected representative of Nelson county in 1887, Mr. Johnson was elected speaker of the Kentucky house of representatives. There were several prospective and announced candidates for speaker, yet no other name was placed in nomination for the honor. At the time of Mr. Johnson's election to the speakership, an interesting incident occurred. Judge Reed, of Paducah, who is now making the race for the Democratic nomination for governor of Kentucky, was a member of the Kentucky house of representatives, and an admiring friend, arising to place his name in nomination for speaker, concluded a most eloquent address of considerable length by withdrawing his name. Mr. Johnson was then elected speaker without opposition. During his second term of office his father died and he did not seek reelection, but opened the law office made vacant by his father's death, and soon established a lucrative practice.

Established a Stud Farm.

Still, the practice of law was too tame for him and never to his liking. He was made master in chancery by Judge W. E. Russell, but soon resigned the position. Shortly thereafter he withdrew from the active practice of the law and purchased a string of standard and thoroughbred horses, made a thousand acres of cypress timbered lands in the South at 27½ cents per acre and has had numerous offers for the purchase at prices ranging from $10 to $15 per acre, which he declined.

In business he is enterprising and is not afraid to spend his money. About twelve years ago, Bardstown, the town of his nativity, had grown old and dingy in appearance. The business houses had grown old. Many of them were frame and sadly in need of paint. The streets were poorly lighted, and it was very evident that the town was not abreast of modern progressiveness. Just at this time Mr. Johnson started many of his friends by paying several thousand dollars for some old rusty frame store buildings, located on the north side of the courthouse square, on the main street of the town. When he tore the old buildings down and gave the material away or sold it for kindling, many of his friends feared he would go into bankruptcy, so rash did they regard his innovation upon the customs of the community. However, this man of business was not daunted by his friends' forebodings. He knew that the volume of trade was good and that the removing of the tollgates from the main thoroughfares of the county and other changes in business conditions would ultimately increase the commerce of the town. So with a pride in his undertaking he erected a handsome three-story brick building. The first floor was immediately and has been continuously rented at remunerative prices to prosperous firms. The second floor is filled with offices and the city hall, while the third floor has been occupied for rooming purposes and by fraternal orders. The investment proved to be an excellent one, and opened the eyes of the business men. Their fears turned into progressiveness, and soon every business house in Bardstown was torn down and rebuilt or was remodeled and made up to date as the result of the business judgment and enterprise of one man.

Upon his retirement from the collectorship Mr. Johnson decided to retire permanently from politics, and to engage in business pursuits and spend his time with his family. He had been importuned by many of his friends to make the race for congress, but declined to do so. It so happened, however, that Mr. Blackburn was to have opposition for United States senator. He had gone his full length in helping to land the collectorship for Ben Johnson and appealed to the latter for help. The call was heeded, and to repay the valiant services of a loyal and faithful friend, Mr. Johnson became a candidate for state senator in the Thirty-eighth district, composed of the counties of Nelson, Spencer and Shelby, and was nominated and elected without opposition. He voted for his old friend, Blackburn, for senator, and labored unceasingly for his re-election, although his devotion was in vain, as the forces of the state administration could not be overcome.

How He Came to Congress.

Two years after his election to the state senate, Hon. D. H. Smith, who served with distinction for several terms as congressman of the Fourth Kentucky district, decided to retire from the turmoils of political life to the pleasures of business and leisurely pursuits. Pressure was then brought to bear upon Mr. Johnson by friends throughout the district to accept the nomination. He consented and was nominated without opposition, being elected over his Republican opponent by the largest majority ever given any candidate since the civil war, with the exception of the majority given Mr. Johnson in his last race for the same office in November, 1910, when he carried every county in the district, several of which are normally Republican.

It is not generally known that Mr. Johnson is an old newspaper man and has had many years' experience as a publisher. He was editor in chief of the Nelson County Record, which, in its palmy days, was one of the best weekly newspapers in Kentucky. In 1908 he was appointed chairman of the State Democratic campaign committee in Kentucky, and under his superb management a Republican majority of 18,000 in 1907 disappeared and the state was carried for the Democratic ticket by a handsome majority. The party throughout the state was organized by voting precincts and never had a more thorough organization.

Admired By Political Opponents.

The positive character and sterling qualities of the man have been responsible for his political and business successes. To know Ben Johnson is to respect and admire him. He is brave as a lion, fearless in the presence of a foe, and generously loyal to his friends. As a boy he was a leader of his youthful friends, and his positive character, ability, and untiring energy have maintained his leadership in political and business fields. He is one of the few men who can take part in every political contest and express himself in opposition to the sentiments of his friends without losing their support and confidence. In politics he is an uncompromising Democrat at all times and on all occasions, yet can poll more Republican votes in a political contest than any other Democrat in the Fourth congressional district.

They admire the man and disregard the political whip of their party will cease their votes for him. It is frequently asked whence is the source of this hold upon the people of his district. The only answer is that he is always the plain, able, fearless, loyal, accommodating, charitable, untiring Ben Johnson. He has always trusted his people and many times has loaned money to the poor and needy without even a note, trusting to their honor to meet the obligation, and rarely has he lost, as gratitude usually prompts repayment of the money. Charity has never been withheld by him from any worthy person or object within his financial ability. In his donations to churches he is always liberal and never discriminating, giving wherever good can be done, and his donations have no political strings on them, as he has always given generously, whether in politics or out of it.

Never Touched Liquor.

Mr. Johnson is never narrow upon question of personal privilege in so far as others are concerned, yet he is the most temperate of men, being a total abstainer. It is well known by the people of his county that not a single drop of intoxicating liquor has ever passed his lips from his earliest years. He has voted for local option in both district and county every time an opportunity has been presented, and has always made liberal contributions to the local option campaign funds. When in the Kentucky state senate he worked untiringly and voted for the county unit local option law, which has established local option in a majority of the counties in Kentucky, and championed and voted for local option measures at all times and on all occasions. Unlike many politicians, he has never dodged on the temperance question, but stands for practical temperance, and has never in any way directly or indirectly been engaged or interested in either the manufacture or sale of any intoxicating liquors.

Since he has been in congress Mr. Johnson has obtained several important appropriations for his district, including $70,000 for a public building and site at Bardstown and a large additional appropriation for the same purpose at Lebanon. When his constituents write him on business matters he attends to their business promptly and in a businesslike manner, and if results can be obtained he gets them for the people of his district.

TO DEFEAT RECIPROCITY.

Protective Tariff League Has Begun Campaign.

The American Protective Tariff League has begun a new campaign against the enactment of the reciprocity agreement. It has sent out hundreds of thousands of post cards, accompanied by the following request: Please co-operate and help defeat Canadian "reciprocity."

Herewith find post cards which please sign and mail to every representative and United States senator from your state at Washington, D. C. Additional post cards will be forwarded on application.

The post card bears a copy of the resolutions adopted by the Tariff League in opposition to reciprocity, on the ground that it is a gross violation of the policy of protection and will be especially injurious to the farmers.

ARRANGE FOR MISSIONARY MEET.

Carlisle.—Arrangements are beginning by way of preparation for the annual convention of the Christian Woman's Board of Missions, Young Woman's Missionary Circles and Bible Schools of the Christian churches of the Eighth Kentucky district, which will assemble here May 17, 18 and 19. The district is composed of Bath, Bourbon, Montgomery, Clark, Harrison, Nicholas and nearby counties.

THREE NEW BRIDGES.

Lebanon.—The fiscal court of Marion county has let contracts for the erection of three modern steel and iron road bridges. Two of these are to be built on the road leading to Bradfordsville and the other one across Prather's creek, a mile west of Raywick. The most important bridge to be constructed is the one that will span South Fork, near Bradfordsville. It will cost $5,200.

CARNEGIE WILL HELP.

Georgetown.—That Andrew Carnegie, the steel king, does not limit his benefactions to libraries alone has just been proved, when, after an appeal by the members of the Methodist church he wrote that he would donate half of the expense of an organ, if the members pay the other half. The pipe organ under consideration is to cost $1,600.

BIG BARN BURNED.

Amandaville.—News comes of the burning of a double crib containing over two hundred barrels of corn owned by R. F. Rowe. The general belief is that it was of incendiary origin.

LUCKY KANSAS CITY.

Kansas City.—This city and July 10 were selected by the Aero club governors as the place and time for the national balloon race. This makes that city the starting point for both the national and international races. If the American team wins this year's international contest it will be the third successive victory and make the cup the permanent property of America. The international race will begin on October 9.

IVORY PALACE OF KING AHAB

Found on Lower Jordan Plain in Samaria.

ROYAL RESIDENCE OF HEROD

The Great, Discovered Also By Jacob H. Schiff's Excavators.

MANY CURIOUS RELICS FOUND

Prof. Ernst Sellin, the Austrian Egyptologist, reports that he has found in the lower Jordan plain, near the road between Jerusalem and Jericho, remains of a palace which he believes is one of those built by Herod the Great.

The building, asserts Sellin, might easily be reconstructed after the original plans. The expedition financed by Jacob H. Schiff of New York, has now brought to light many remarkable ruins in Palestine, of which the Sellin "find" is not the least.

The remains of Israel's ancient capital are to be found, for the most part, on a huge isolated hill, 350 feet in height, six miles northwest of Nablus, otherwise known as Shechem, and about twenty miles from the Mediterranean sea. The mound is covered with orchards of olives, figs and pomegranates.

The first that is known of this hill in history is when it was bought, about 900 B. C., by Omri, who built a town called Shomeron, afterwards known as Samaria. There Ahab, the son of Omri, built a temple to Baal, and also an ivory palace. In the ivory palace he ruled the northern kingdom down to 722 B. C.—as see the accounts in the Book of Kings in the Old Testament.

When Sargon captured Shomeron (Samaria) he took away 27,000 people into captivity. The population he left in the city was put under the reign of an Assyrian Governor, and the city was colonized by Sargon and Esarhaddon with Babylonians in place of the exiled Israelites. The next conqueror of Samaria was Alexander the Great. The place continued to be occupied clear on down to the time of Herod. He rebuilt and "improved" the city and named it Sebaste. This was just before the birth of Christ.

Herod had a passion for building cities, and he literally dotted the landscape of his time with temples and palaces. He was notoriously cruel and was poor pay. He made everybody work for him for nothing.

Mr. Schiff's excavators report that they have found most of the palaces of the Israelite kings who dwelt in Samaria, including the "ivory palace" of Ahab. Tablets were discovered in the last named, giving names of persons and places in some new ciphers for numerals, and a few such expressions as "old wine" and "clarified oil," of which the tablets would indicate King Ahab had an abundant supply in his cellars.

Also there was dug up royal notice offerings sent to Ahab from Egypt, and a clay tablet letter to Ahab from a king of Assyria, possibly Assur-nasir-pal, known in history as the "Assyrian Colossus." The identification of the letter is not yet complete. Ahab was one of Israel's great kings, says Prof. Reinsner, who is in charge of the Samarian excavations under the Schiff grant.

A number of Roman and Graeco-Roman temples and palaces have been uncovered at Samaria, one of the temples having a broad curve like the apse of a church. It is assigned to the Byzantine period. Arabic lamps, Roman roof tiles, Greek and Roman pottery and broken glass have been found, along with many remains of ancient Hebrew workmanship, including massive walls and stairways, cisterns and plastered stone drains. Some of the stones in the stairs are a yard long and they were well cut and laid.

BABE RUN OVER BY A LOCOMOTIVE, BUT ESCAPED

Detroit, Mich., May 4.—The two-year-old son of Operator Charles Hart, of the Detroit and Toledo

Shore Line, was crossing a railroad track at River Rouge to-day on his way to join his father at the station, when a locomotive bore down on him, caught him on the tender and carried him a few feet. He rolled off and the locomotive passed over him.

The engine was stopped and the crew jumped off to look for the mangled body of the baby. But baby crawled out from under the locomotive, not even excited.

The engine passed over him without doing injury.

For Dad's Sake.

The young man was leaning on the garden gate, chatting with the object of his affections, when the latter said hesitatingly, "I am going to ask a great favor of you."

"It already granted," he answered devotedly.

"A very great favor," she repeated as if doubtful of the propriety of stating it. "You're sure that you won't think it forward of me?"

"Never," he answered: "nothing you asked could be too great a trial. Only tell me what I can do for you."

"Well," she replied, with evident reluctance, "would you mind not leaning on that gate? Father painted it this afternoon, and he will be awfully provoked if he has to do it all over again."

SPECIAL NOTICE in regard to OBITUARIES, RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT, &c.

The Hartford Herald has adopted a new rule in regard to Obituaries, Resolutions of Respect, Cards of Thanks, &c., whether written at the behest of lodges, churches or individuals, and that is, we shall charge at the rate of two cents per line for all such articles, except obituary poetry, which will be one cent per word, straight. This is the smallest rate we charge for anything and is only one-fifth of our regular rate. The amount, in cash or stamps, must accompany each article, or it will not be printed. Six words average a line in ordinary reading and every separate character or initial letter counts as a word. The heading and the signature both count one line each, even if they are only a word or two. All obituary poetry, straight through, one cent per word.

Our old rule in regard to Obituaries, &c. was 150 words free, balance a cent a word, but this did not prove satisfactory because the bounds were almost always overstepped, and we have been forced to adopt this new rule, which is in effect from now on. Contributors will please remember.

ANNOUNCEMENTS Of programs or any event to take place in the future, matters of general interest but not exact current news, should reach The Herald just as soon as possible after being decided upon. Please don't delay.

REBELS ATTACK CITY OF JUAREZ

Over the Protest of General
Madero,

AND FIERCE FIGHT RESULTS

Took Possession of Custom
House, But Retreated
At Nightfall.

SURPRISE MEXICO OFFICIALS

El Paso, May 8.—Insurrection in the ranks of Gen. Madero and a lust for fight, of which the federal concessions had apparently deprived them, caused a fierce attack on Juarez, which culminated to-night in the careful retreat of the insurgents after a day of continuous skirmishing.

Five persons on the American side are known to have been killed and twelve wounded. The casualties of the combatants are not known to-night.

A protest was registered by Col. Steever, of the Fourth United States cavalry, against the firing into the American territory, and it lessened considerably thereafter.

Nearly a thousand American troops were massed on the border keeping back the crowds and ready to respond to orders from Washington.

To-night, couriers are galloping back and forth trying to arrange an armistice so the peace negotiations may go on.

The federals brought their artillery into action about 5 o'clock, and shrapnel swept the insurgent advance and into the outlying forces of the camp near Peace Grace, where the peace commissioners were to have met to-day.

The insurgents carried the fight into Juarez, taking possession of the custom house. They withdrew from Juarez at night under the order of their chiefs.

Government Officials Bewildered.
Mexico City, May 8.—With no information other than that contained in the Associated Press dispatches regarding the kaleidoscopic changes at Juarez, the Government officials are betraying complete bewilderment. They were confident that the Diaz manifesto would be satisfactory to Madero and that peace negotiations would be resumed.

Uneasiness was created by the news of the attack, followed by satisfaction when it was learned that Madero had the men under control. Diaz held a consultation with the Minister of War and other members of his cabinet, to-night, regarding the new turn of affairs. In defense of the manifesto, officials stated that the anarchical condition of the insurgents was foreseen by Diaz, and an effort had been made to avert it. The conversation of the army officers at the war department, to-night, was of anything but peace.

Have You Got Yours?

Washington, May 6.—If you cannot run your hand into your pocket and haul forth a roll of $34.55 you are not financially an average man. A statement just issued by the United States Treasury Department gives that amount as the per capita circulation, basing the figures upon an estimated population on May 1, 1911, of 93,765,000.

The department showed that on that date there was a general stock of money amounting to $3,546,574,337, which included $308,936,220 held in the treasury and $3,237,638,117 in circulation.

HOPEWELL.

May 8.—Some of the wheat is ruined in this neighborhood and some damaged half or two-thirds from the recent storm. The damage to houses, crops and other things is estimated somewhere between $1,500 and $2,000. We can stand in our yard and northward it looks like winter, southward it looks like summer. The water is higher than it has been for several years. Some corn is planted, but some will have to be planted again.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Johnson were in Rockport last Saturday, trading.

Miss Margaret Taylor has returned from a week's visit with Mr. and Mrs. E. V. Bennett, near Ceralvo.

Mr. W. E. Johnson has completed his new stock barn.

Mrs. L. S. Engler provided a nice birthday dinner last Sunday in honor of Mr. Engler's 56th birthday. There is hall in Will Chinn's field that fell last Saturday-week. He made ice cream Sunday with it.

Mr. C. G. Taylor weighed 100 ears of corn and it weighed 76 pounds in the ear, shelled it weighed 63.

CENTERTOWN.

May 8.—Mr. Garfield Barnard is preparing to move his section crew to Kronos. We regret very much to give them up.

Mr. Claude Chapman is preparing to move back to his farm near McHenry.

Attorney C. M. Crowe, of Hartford, was here one day last week on business.

It is estimated that about fifty bridges and culverts were washed out in Centertown Magisterial District during the recent rains.

Our town marshal, Mr. W. G. Tichenor, spent last Friday night with his brother, Mr. T. Tichenor, at Livermore.

Mr. Josh Crowe, who received a knife wound at the hands of Ed Johnson, is improving.

Miss Nina Rowe and Mr. R. F. McKinney were quietly married at the bride's home here on last Sunday morning, Rev. R. D. Bennett officiating.

The Woodmen's speaker that was billed for here Friday night failed to appear.

Centertown is preparing to erect a graded school building right soon.

SULPHUR SPRINGS.

May 8.—Farmers are going in a rush since the water has gone, but the land is hard to plow after a few days of sunshine.

James Wysong, of near Sunnydale, died last Wednesday night at his home, of a stomach trouble, and was buried at Sunnydale Thursday at 2 o'clock p. m. A large crowd of relatives and friends followed the remains to their last resting place and left the mound above them covered with flowers.

Albert Cox has bought the interest of J. D. Ralph in the Dundee Mercantile Co., located in our east-end suburbs and known as Dundee. It is passing strange why a man will invest his money in the suburbs instead of in the real town, where the people are, but it seems that some people just don't like to live in town, nohow.

Mr. and Mrs. Pollard, of near Trisler, visited their son, Aaron, near Sunnydale, Saturday and Sunday, returning to their home Monday morning.

CENTERTOWN.

May 8.—Married at the bride's home here last Sunday, Mr. R. F. McKinney to Miss Nina Rowe, Rev. R. D. Bennett officiating. These are very popular young people and their many friends here extend congratulations.

Rev. R. D. Bennett filled his regular appointment at the Methodist church here last Sunday and Sunday night.

Mr. James Crowe, of Livermore, visited his son, Dr. Crowe, at this place, last week.

Master Martin Kincheloe, of Central City, visited his grandmother, Mrs. Mollie Rowe, here last Friday and Saturday.

Mrs. Alvin Rowe, who has been very sick, is improving.

Messrs. James Igleheart and Lenice Brown, of Matanzas, were in town last Sunday evening.

Mr. Otis Brown and wife, of Matanzas, were the guests of R. H. Kincheloe and family last Sunday.

Dr. Jessie Everly, of Ceralvo, was in town last Monday.

Mr. E. S. McMillan returned from Logan county last Sunday night.

Mr. O. L. Ross, who has been confined to his home with tonsillitis, is able to be out again.

Mrs. J. B. Maddox is on the sick list.

The election held here last Saturday to elect school trustees resulted in the re-election of Messrs. J. B. Maddox and Virgil Bishop.

Esq. W. P. Render, of Matanzas, was in town last Monday evening.

ASYLUMS OF STATE ARE VERY CROWDED

Next Legislature Must Provide
For Additions to State Institutions For Insane.

Frankfort, Ky., May 8.—The records of the Board of Control of Kentucky's charitable institutions show that the average number of patients confined in the three asylums for the insane during the month of March this year was 3,705. Of this number 1,453 are confined in the Lakeland asylum, near Louisville, 1,060 in the Eastern asylum at Lexington and 1,192 in the Western asylum at Hopkinsville.

All the asylums are crowded and it is difficult to find room for a new patient till one of the old ones is discharged as cured. It is expected that the next Legislature will be asked to provide for additional buildings at two of the asylums, and the Board of Control will likely recommend that a separate institution be established for epileptics. Very few of the epileptics are crazy and should not be confined with the insane people, so the experts say. If the epileptic institution is established, there will be no necessity for additional buildings at the asylums, as the wards now occupied in the asylums by these epileptics could be used by additional insane patients when the epileptics are taken away.

The average cost per day to the State for each patient in the asylums is forty-two and one-half cents. This includes food, clothing, medicines and everything. This is considered a remarkably low rate, considering the high prices that have to be paid for all kinds of foodstuffs.

Mortification Well Earned.

An Englishman, alone with Richardson, the novelist, said to him, "I am happy to pay my respects to the author of 'Sir Charles Grandison,' for at Paris, and at The Hague, and, in fact, at every place I have visited, it is much admired."

Richardson appeared not to notice the compliment, but when all the company were assembled addressed the gentleman with, "Sir, I think you were saying something about 'Sir Charles Grandison.'"

"No, sir," he replied. "I do not remember ever to have heard it mentioned."—From Orville's "Cyclopedia of Anecdotes."

Remarkable.

"One of the astronomers claims that he has charted 60,000 new worlds." "By George, it's remarkable!" "Not so very when you consider the fact that he has the use of the largest telescope in the world." "I wasn't thinking of that. What I consider strange is that with so many other worlds in existence the lady who is acting as stepmother for my children had to light on this one."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Memory Resents Distrust.

CAUGHT BY DRIVER ANTS.

Exciting Experience in West Africa With These Deadly Pests.

The driver ants are a terrible pest in West Africa. Crawling over the ground in countless thousands, invincible to anything but a wall of fire, they bring quick death to every live thing unfortunate enough to be caught in their path and leave behind them the skeletons of lizards, rats, sheep, cattle and even human beings. In his book entitled "We Two in West Africa" Major F. G. Guggisberg recounts the terrors of one night when the pests invaded his house:

I heard voices calling, "Get up; the ants are on us!" Sitting bolt upright, I found the room apparently in darkness. In reality the lantern on the floor at the foot of the bed was still burning, but as I threw my hand out and felt the heavy weight of the mosquito net I suddenly realized that it was coated with ants so thickly that it kept the light out as effectively as a velvet curtain.

Two bounds took me out of that mosquito net and the hut, but it was an uncanny feeling when my feet crunched through the living carpet of ants. Hitting the side of the doorway in my hasty exit, I brought down a shower of the little pests on my head and shoulders from rafter, wall and roof, and then the fun began.

Some people say that the ant buries his head in you and leaves it there, others that he drives some other part of his body into you. I didn't worry about examining which theory was correct. It did not affect the torture of the result. For the next ten minutes I was standing in a state of nature in the open, the rain beating down and the boys, hastily roused, picking ants off my body by the light of torches.

I was so engrossed in this new sport that I quite forgot about Lees; then I suddenly realized that he was not there. I won a moral V. C. by going into that infernal place and hauling him out. He was a pitiable sight in the torchlight, his hair waving as if in a breeze as the ants crawled through it, his body black with them.

To pick them off was too slow a job. I seized a tin of kerosene oil and poured it over him, sweeping the enemy off in thousands. One of my hammock boys rushed up with a flaming torch, meaning in the kindness of his heart to give master more light. I yelled to him to keep away, and he, thinking he was being urged on, rushed toward us quicker than ever. Luckily Lees' cook stopped him in time, and a tragedy was averted.

We spent the remainder of the night under a tree. In spite of the discomfort of it all—the persistent rain, the mist, the smarting pain of the ant bites—we could not help laughing at the idea of our helplessness against the little brutes that were occupying our comfortable huts. However, the only thing to do was to wait patiently until they cleared out.

A Repulsive People.

The inhabitants of Dutch New Guinea are not an attractive race. "The native woman," says Dr. Eric Marshall, the explorer, "drags up the children, cuts the firewood, brings in the sago, works the canoes, occasionally proving her skill as a warrior in the family and village quarrels, and always coming off best with her tongue. She is usually content with a strip of bark cloth. When in mourning she dispenses even with this. The male sex predominates, and most of the men have to be content with one wife. On the death of a man the widow, clad like Eve, but as ugly as Satan, crawls around the grave, wailing and chanting, performing weird movements with arms and body, which may or may not be meant for dancing."—Fall Mail Gazette.

Blue Tits Love the Bees.

Bees have enemies of various kinds like the rest of creation. Every one knows that many birds are insectivorous, but all insects do not form the food of any one species. The bird which has formed a taste for bees is the blue tit, and if a pair of these discover a suitable nesting place in the neighborhood of an apiary it is surprising how many bees will be carried off to satisfy them and their young. Generally their work is mostly felt where queen raising is extensively indulged in, for queens and drones being largest and slowest on the wing form a desirable and easy prey.—Agricultural Economist.

Up to His Standard.

A merchant in a small town was about to become bankrupt for the seventh time. He called in the accountants to go over his books. When they had finished they told him he would be able to pay 3 cents on the dollar. A troubled look came over the merchant's face. "Heretofore," he said, "I have always paid 10 cents on the dollar, and I'll do it now," he affirmed as a benevolent smile overspread his face. "I'll pay the rest out of my own pocket."—Everybody's.

A Reminder.

Mrs. Crimmonbeak—Did you think of me while I was away in the country, John? Mr. Crimmonbeak—I certainly did, dear. I wore that necktie you bought me for my birthday, and everybody asked where on earth I got it, and I had to tell them.—Yonkers Statesman.

A Well Done Job.

Unexpected Guests

The farmer and his wife were about to sit down to a cold supper when they saw some old friends driving towards the house.

The good wife was equal to the occasion—thanks to her New Perfection Oil Cook-stove.

She had it lit in a moment, and her guests hardly were seated on the porch before a hearty hot meal was ready for the table—sausages and eggs and long rashers of streaky bacon, and rolls just crisped in the oven and fresh coffee—and the hostess herself as cool and neat as if she had not been near the kitchen.

She never could have managed it with an old-fashioned range. The New Perfection is the quickest, most convenient and best cooker on the market.
